4. Clause-wise analysis

Preamble / Parties

Category: Others (confidence 0.44) Potential risk: LOW

Original clause:

> RENTAL AGREEMENT
> (SYNTHETIC SAMPLE DOCUMENT FOR TESTING — FICTITIOUS PARTIES)
> This Rental Agreement is made on 1st July 2026 between Mr. Joseph Kurian, owner of House No. 14, Pattom, Thiruvananthapuram (the "Landlord"), and Ms. Anjali Nair (the "Tenant").

Explanation:

In simple terms: RENTAL AGREEMENT
(SYNTHETIC SAMPLE DOCUMENT FOR TESTING — FICTITIOUS PARTIES)
This Rental Agreement is made on 1st July 2026 between Mr. Joseph Kurian, owner of House No. 14, Pattom, Thiruvananthapuram (the "Landlord"), and Ms. Anjali Nair (the "Tenant").

Risk reason:

No potential risk indicators were found by the rule checks.

Precaution:

Read the clause carefully and confirm it matches what was agreed.

Clause 1: Term

Category: Termination (confidence 0.48) Potential risk: LOW

Original clause:

> The Landlord lets the house to the Tenant for a period of eleven (11) months starting from 1st July 2026.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Landlord lets the house to the Tenant for a period of eleven (11) months starting from 1st July 2026.
Key details — time periods mentioned: eleven (11) months.

Risk reason:

No potential risk indicators were found by the rule checks.

Precaution:

Read the clause carefully and confirm it matches what was agreed.

Clause 2: Rent

Category: Payment (confidence 0.78) Potential risk: MEDIUM

Original clause:

> The Tenant shall pay a monthly rent of Rs. 18,000 on or before the 5th of every month. The Landlord may increase the rent at any time at his sole discretion.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Tenant must pay a monthly rent of Rs. 18,000 on or before the 5th of every month. The Landlord may increase the rent at any time at his own choice, without needing a reason.
Key details — amounts mentioned: Rs. 18,000.

Risk reason:

Rent or price can be increased unilaterally: One party can change the price at will.

Precaution:

Fix the rent for the term; allow revision only on renewal by mutual agreement.

Evidence based on: Model Tenancy Act, 2021 (rent revision as per agreement)

Clause 3: Security Deposit

Category: Payment (confidence 0.57) Potential risk: HIGH

Original clause:

> The Tenant shall pay a security deposit of Rs. 1,80,000 (ten months' rent). The deposit is non-refundable if the Tenant leaves before the end of the term.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Tenant must pay a security deposit of Rs. 1,80,000 (ten months' rent). The deposit is non-refundable if the Tenant leaves before the end of the term.
Key details — amounts mentioned: Rs. 1,80,000; time periods mentioned: ten months.

Risk reason:

Deposit (or part of it) is non-refundable: A security deposit is meant to be refunded on handing over possession, after due deductions. Deposit of Rs. 1,80,000 ≈ 10.0 months' rent: The deposit exceeds the two-months'-rent benchmark in the Model Tenancy Act for residential premises.

Precaution:

Make the deposit fully refundable, less itemised deductions. Ask to reduce the deposit to two months' rent and fix a refund deadline.

Evidence based on: Model Tenancy Act, 2021, s.11

Clause 4: Lock-in Period

Category: Termination (confidence 0.42) Potential risk: HIGH

Original clause:

> There is a lock-in period of six (6) months. If the Tenant vacates during the lock-in period, the entire security deposit shall be forfeited.

Explanation:

In simple terms: There is a lock-in period of six (6) months. If the Tenant vacates during the lock-in period, the entire security deposit must be lost (not returned).
Key details — time periods mentioned: six (6) months.

Risk reason:

Leaving during the lock-in forfeits the deposit: Losing the whole deposit is likely disproportionate to the actual loss. Penalty / fixed damages / forfeiture: Only reasonable compensation up to the named amount is recoverable; a penalty is not automatic.

Precaution:

Replace forfeiture with a notice period or a limited compensation amount. Check that the amount reflects a genuine estimate of loss (e.g. actual training cost) and reduces over time.

Evidence based on: Indian Contract Act, 1872, s.74; Indian Contract Act, 1872, s.74; Kailash Nath Associates v. DDA (2015)

Clause 5: Access

Category: Others (confidence 0.80) Potential risk: MEDIUM

Original clause:

> The Landlord may enter the premises at any time without notice for inspection.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Landlord may enter the premises at any time without notice for inspection.

Risk reason:

Landlord may enter without notice: The Model Tenancy Act benchmark requires at least 24 hours' prior notice for entry.

Precaution:

Require 24 hours' written notice except in emergencies.

Evidence based on: Model Tenancy Act, 2021

Clause 6: Termination

Category: Termination (confidence 0.97) Potential risk: HIGH

Original clause:

> The Landlord may terminate this agreement by giving fifteen (15) days' notice. The Tenant shall give two (2) months' notice before vacating.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Landlord may end this agreement by giving fifteen (15) days' notice. The Tenant must give two (2) months' notice before vacating.
Key details — time periods mentioned: fifteen (15) days, two (2) months.

Risk reason:

Notice period of fifteen (15) days (The Landlord): The notice period is shorter than the 30 days used in the reference clause, leaving little time to respond or find alternatives. Different notice periods: fifteen (15) days vs two (2) months: The parties are bound by very different notice periods, so the clause is not mutual. Only one party is given a right to terminate: The termination right is one-sided.

Precaution:

Ask for at least 30 days' written notice, applying equally to both parties. Request the same notice period for both parties. Ask for a matching termination right for the other party.

Evidence based on: Indian Contract Act, 1872, s.23 (unfair terms); Learned risk detector (fine-tuned MiniLM + TF-IDF ensemble, trained on CUAD v1 expert labels); Project reference template (not an official legal standard)

Clause 7: Liability

Category: Liability (confidence 0.74) Potential risk: HIGH

Original clause:

> The Tenant shall be responsible for all repairs and for any and all damages to the premises, including structural repairs.

Explanation:

In simple terms: The Tenant must be responsible for all repairs and for any and all damages to the premises, including structural repairs.

Risk reason:

any and all damages: Liability is open-ended with no upper limit. Tenant responsible for all or structural repairs: Structural repairs are normally the landlord's responsibility.

Precaution:

Negotiate a liability cap and limit liability to losses caused by your own breach or negligence. Limit the tenant's responsibility to minor repairs and damage caused by the tenant.

Evidence based on: Indian Contract Act, 1872, s.73; Model Tenancy Act, 2021

Clause 8: Dispute Resolution

Category: Dispute (confidence 0.96) Potential risk: LOW

Original clause:

> Any dispute shall be settled by the courts at Thiruvananthapuram.

Explanation:

In simple terms: Any dispute must be settled by the courts at Thiruvananthapuram.

Risk reason:

Choice of a competent court is generally valid; check that the place is convenient for you.

Precaution:

Read the clause carefully and confirm it matches what was agreed.
